ON PICKING FLOWERS

For his parting shot this issue, Don Martin downs three fingers of Jack Daniels, and leaves us with his sensitive observations

The eye-doctor found that Little Red Riding Hood was suffering from near-sightedness, far-sightedness, myopia, astigmatism, and convergent strabismus. She became a celebrity in optical circles, and was written up in several medical text books.

She caught her finger in the Mix-Master, short-circuited the Hi-Fi set, and let the water overflow in the filter-flow washing machine.

The local funeral parlor wouldn't touch him either, without a signed release from his next of kin. And, before long, Jack's neighbors began holding mass protest meetings and writing angry letters to the Board of Health.

Poor Jack was really in a spot. But in the nick of time, his goose laid a golden egg, and he was able to sell the egg and hire a private trucking firm to haul the giant away.

Cars and airplanes scared her to death. And the first time she saw Ralph Edwards on television, she had a nervous breakdown.

The Royal Physician finally put her on tranquilizers. But still, the Princess couldn't eat or sleep. And so, after a hundred years in bed, Sleeping Beauty wound up with a bad case of insomnia.

From then on, instead of chasing around in the woods, Red Riding Hood stayed home and did eye-straining exercises. And so, as she grew older, her eyesight improved greatly.

Unfortunately, just as the truck was driving off, it ran over Jack's magic goose. And so Jack had nothing to show for all his trouble but a few newspaper clippings, a summons from the Board of Health, a peptic ulcer and one small goose-down pillow.

Naturally, as she grew older, the rest of her improved greatly, too! So she still had trouble with wolves! But she never again got them mixed up with her grandmother!

a woodsman, chopping trees nearby, heard Little Red Riding Hood's cries for help, and rushed to the cottage. When he saw what was happening, he killed the wolf with one blow of his axe. Little Red Riding Hood's grandmother came out of the closet where she was hiding. She kissed her granddaughter, and thanked the woodsman. Then, they all sat down to enjoy the food that Red Riding Hood had brought in her basket...

Remember ...
Little Red Riding Hood

all standing in their places, fast asleep. On a bower, overgrown with vines, the Prince saw the beautiful sleeping Princess. Overcome by her loveliness, he bent and kissed her pale lips. Immediately, her eyelashes fluttered, and she awakened. She told the Prince of the spell cast on her by an evil sorceress many years before—a spell which his kiss had broken. Overjoyed, he took her in his arms—and soon they were married. And they lived happily ever after.

Remember ...
The Sleeping Beauty

reached the ground, Jack looked up and saw the Giant right behind him! Quickly, he took an axe and chopped at the beanstalk. It started to sway, then crashed to the ground—And that was the end of the giant! With the magic goose to lay golden eggs for them, Jack and his old mother lived in comfort and happiness forever after.

Remember ...
Jack and the Beanstalk

Let's face it!
How comfortable would you be with a big dead giant cluttering up your backyard? And how comfortable would your neighbors
let you be?

This all happened on Tuesday, and in the suburbs where Jack lived, the garbage pick-ups were made on Mondays and Fridays only. So you can imagine the smell when Friday rolled around, and the garbage men finally arrived. One whiff, and they refused to take him, claiming that "giant-removing" wasn't in their contract.

It wasn't so easy for the Princess to adjust to modern living. In her time, people were still churning their own butter, weaving their own flax, and talking about the Crimean War. Her troubles began the moment the Prince carried her over the moat of his new split-level ranch palace...

Except for one tiny detail that everyone had overlooked! This kid had slept for
one hundred years!
That's a lot of catching up to have to do!

Now, let's look at this objectively!
Could you live
happily with a kid who couldn't tell a wolf from her grandmother?
Of course not!

The first thing Little Red Riding Hood's grandmother did after the old woodsman left was to give the kid a good clout. Then she dragged her into town to have her eyes examined.

up pages which prove

Did they really go around, after that one crisis in their lives, wallowing in unbridled joy and merriment? Or did they continue to have problems just like the rest of us? Because MAD believes that kids should be taught to come to grips with reality and realize that life isn't at all like the sweetness-and-light of fairy tales, here are...

WEREN'T SO HAPPY

The trail led straight to Hansel and Gretel, who confessed proudly. Overnight, the Hansel-Gretel case became known as the "crime of the century." Shocked people everywhere demanded swift punishment.

Derrance Clarrow, the famous trial lawyer was hired to defend the two young murderers. He pleaded the case brilliantly, and succeeded in arousing much public sympathy for the children by showing they were mentally ill.

The jury, although it found them guilty, recommended mercy, and Hansel and Gretel were sentenced to Reform School for life. The full story of this shocking crime may be read in Meyer Livid's book, "Combustion!"

Finally, he became so enamored with himself, he decided to become a movie star and share his handsome countenance with the world. So he hired an agent, pulled a few royal strings, and before very long, landed a big Hollywood contract.

Unfortunately, his gorgeous looks did not photograph quite so gorgeous in Cinemascope, as an actor he was a bust, and his first picture turned out to be a bomb!

So he ended up working out his contract playing "creature" parts in Grade-B monster-movies—hidden under tons of repulsive and horrible makeup.

Remember how them fairy tales you used to read (and maybe still do) all ended with the mealy-mouthed syrupy phrase:
"—and they lived happily every after."? Well, we've been brooding about this lately. We've been brooding about other things, too, lately, but this is far more important!
Mainly, what was so special about fairy tale characters?

some fairy tale follow

THE HAPPY ENDINGS

Remember ... Hansel and Gretel and as she leaned in to show them, Hansel and Gretel pushed the wicked old witch into the oven, and slammed the door. Then they ran out of the house and through the woods as fast as their legs could carry them.

When their father, the old woodcutter, saw his children again, he was overjoyed. He hugged them and kissed them, and they all joined hands and went into their little cottage ...
Where they lived happily ever after!

Remember ... Beauty and the Beast wept, and took him in her arms, and told the Beast that she loved him with all her heart.

And immediately, he was changed into a tall, handsome Prince!
Beauty was astounded. The Prince explained that an evil witch had cast a spell on him, and that Beauty's love had at last set him free.
So Beauty and the Prince were married, and lived together happily for ever and ever after.

Sure they didi! Kids go around shoving old ladies into hot ovens all the time, and nobody bats an eyelash!
Until the crime
is discovered!

You don't have to be any psychiatrist to
all these changes in the physical usually result in changes of personality!

An itinerant witchgoods peddler, making his usual rounds, got curious about all the newspapers and bottles of snake milk piling up outside the witch's door—so he investigated—
And found the gruesome evidence!

The Prince was so thrilled to be rid of his repulsive and horrible old face that he spent all his spare time staring into a mirror, admiring his gorgeous new looks, and completely ignoring Beauty.

AND HERE ARE THE RESULTS . . .

Thus, by adding a few accessories, and re-designing the interiors to look like everybody's home, theater-owners would play to packed houses every night. Of course, they wouldn't have to bother if Hollywood made better movies.

On the other hand, why should he bother when he can plop down into a soft easy chair, dressed as he's pleased, in the comfort of his own home, and do his own baby-sitting while he watches an awful movie on TV free-for-nothing!

Then, they should remodel their sparkling white movie screens so they look like ordinary old television sets.

And to offset the free admission, they should sell time and periodically interrupt the pictures with commercials.

THERE'S NO BUSINESS IN SHOW BUSINESS DEPT.

IN AN EFFORT TO STIMULATE SAGGING BOX-OFFICE RECEIPTS AND TO KEEP MORE AND MORE MOVIE THEATERS FROM GOING OUT OF BUSINESS, HOLLYWOOD HAS RESORTED TO SOME DESPERATE MEASURES

First came 3-D, which only served to irritate the movie-goers' eyes!

Then came 3-track stereophonic sound, which only served to irritate the movie-goers' ears!

And finally, Cinemascope wrap-around screens, which only served to irritate the theater owners' ulcers by illuminating seats better, making it obvious that

HERE'S THE REASON WHY...

In order to go to a movie today, the average guy has to pay a baby-sitter!

When he gets to the movie, he has to pay an outrageous admission charge!

All this so he can sit in a straight-backed chair and see an awful picture!

HERE'S WHAT CAN BE DONE...

The first thing theater-owners should do to fill their empty movie houses is eliminate the admission charges.

Next, they should rip out those straight-back theater seats and replace them with comfortable old easy chairs.

SUCCESS SYMBOLS

and mainly new ulcers! These things are called "success symbols." Recently, we at MAD figured a way out of this rat-race to attain "success symbols"... a way to impress "The Joneses" with things that may look expensive, but really aren't! We've decided that the trouble with The Comics today is that they just ain't got no literary value! Things might have been a lot different if they'd started off right in the first place. We're convinced that comics would be considered high-class reading matter if only they'd hired some famous authors, poets and playwrights to handle the actual writing. ON A CHOOSING BOOK

Being both a member of the literati and the illiterati, Don Martin is familiar with the soul-searching torment

"Designing a modern building for the International Export and Import Company was quite a challenge. I am certainly pleased with the magnificent results my extraordinary talents were able to produce, considering the low fee I charged. You will note that in my brilliantly executed rendering, I have imaginatively blended a mixture of both the commercial and the monumental in this edifice. In all due modesty so typical of noted architects today, I believe this to be not only my finest design, but also the very finest created anywhere, anytime!

"I've always believed that months of study should precede every architectural endeavor. So, when a syndicate of Miami investors prevailed upon me to design a modern luxury refreshment stand, I immediately left to study the building site. Months of sitting on the beach, sketching, planning, studying, dreaming, and acquiring a delightful sun-tan followed. Finally, with all my calculations complete (and coincidentally with the end of the winter season) I headed back North to my office where I completed and submitted my drawings—and my bill."

... AND THE STRANGE THINGS THAT HAPPEN

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT

"The modern building should fit into its surroundings as if nature had planned it that way. In designing my superb skyscraper for New York City, I took into consideration the natural character of the city. Thus, I cleverly conceived of the tall obelisk shape which blends in so well with these surroundings. I paid particular attention to the fact that the busy city people are everywhere, and used my ingenuity to plan the building so it would look right from every angle."

NUTS TO VOUS DEPT.

When people go traveling abroad, they usually take things with them that make their trip more enjoyable. For instance things like money! They usually also take those handy little "Guide Books" which help them get along in foreign languages. These guide books are crammed full of phrases like "How much is it?", "That's too much!", "My toast is cold!", "My room is hot!" and so on. Well, perhaps these inept, simple-minded comments were good enough for travelers abroad in the past. Unfortunately, things have changed. People who go abroad these days need phrases to fit the situations they'll run into today! So, to help today's traveler, here is...

TRAINING YOUR MASTER

LOSING THE LEASH

On your first walk, you will probably have to wear a leash. We know this is silly, but don't fight it. Play along with this stupid game at first. Once you are outside, clever maneuvering will teach your master who's the boss.

Immediately head for the nearest tree, whether you need to or not. Proceed to circle the tree several times so it will be impossible for your master to disentangle you. Such tactics should annoy him so much he'll unleash you.

If this fails, then without warning, start chasing something. This can be a cat, a bird, another dog, anything. Eventually, your master will have to let go of the leash. After a few days of this, he'll be thoroughly trained.

FETCHING HIS OWN PAPER

Don't be surprised if your new master expects you to carry his newspaper in the house from the front stoop. You can break him of this annoying habit immediately by using your paws and teeth to render his paper unreadable.

This may, of course, anger him. Brace yourself to be whacked several times on the rump with the rolled-up paper. More often than not, it will not hurt at all, but don't you let on! Instead, just look sad-eyed and whimper softly.

This will cause your master to feel sorry for you, and guilty for losing his temper. He will hate himself for what he has done, and apologize over and over. Be noble and don't laugh in his face. After all, he's only human!

THROWING THE STICK

Wolfsbane: An old maid.

There are several variations of this game which you can teach your master. One of these is to fetch the wrong stick and see if he notices any difference.

Do not be angry if he doesn't master tricks the first time. Be kind to him. Remember, even tho he's just a dumb animal, a man is a dog's best friend.

OUR MASTER

CHECKING YOUR CHOICE

Once you have chosen your breed of master, you must carefully check his individual specifications. A well-bred master can be judged by examining the following parts of his body. If they fail to meet all these rigid standards, bite him and start searching all over again.

Forum: Not against him.

There are various breeds of masters a potential human-owner can choose from. Be sure that the one you select will fit in with the way of life you want to lead. Once you've made your choice, play up to him (or her) by barking, wagging your tail, pawing him soulfully, and whining. Human over by such demonstrations of affection, you'll have your master in an

A DOGHOUSE IS NOT A HOME DEPT.

Conjuror: Tricky lawyer.

Have you noticed how, more and more, dog owners are treating their pets like members of the family? Well, we at MAD have discovered that this trend toward letting Fido eat in the dining room, sleep in the master bedroom, and generally run the lives of the people around him comes as no accident. Actually, it's part of a calculated plan by the Dog World, and we hesitate to guess where it will all end. To support our claim, we offer in evidence the following book, which we forcibly took from a cute little Cocker Spaniel puppy in a petshop window the other night:

Penthouse Decorated in Tasteless Elegance

J. ORLANDO PHOTO SERVICE

The luxury of penthouse living is clearly demonstrated in the apartment of the late New York stockbroker, Irving Finster. Decorated in contrasting tones of lavender and orange, the tastefully appointed living room combines modern beauty with Victorian absurdity. Furniture is by Hans Farshimmelt, carpeting is by Rancid, and draperies are by The Window. Entire room is set off by Chartreuse-tinted indirect lighting. Entire apartment is set off by Dynamite.

"Barmaid At The Moulin Rouge," painted by the French Impressionist, Scroulous Van DreK, (1850-1950) decorates the New York apartment of the late Irving R. Finster (1900-1959), a well-known collector and art connoisseur. Finster purchased the painting for a price estimated at $175,000, but actually closer to $7,98. The painting is an early example of the Blue Absinthe period.

SLIT SHEATH LEADS 1959 FASHIONS

The off-the-back, off-the-shoulder slit sheath has become a "must" item for the off-the-nut well-dressed woman. Exquisitely designed by Pierre Voila in Paris, this original blend of silk and burrap is priced at $249.50 (Model: Zaida Zislauff)

New jewel-handled revolver favored by sportswomen

A new jewel-handled 22 caliber revolver is fast becoming the favorite of sportswomen everywhere. The feminine firearm holds six shells, or five shells and a small lipstick, and measures five inches in length. Small enough to carry in pocket or purse, the weapon is reported to be extremely accurate when fired straight. Other revolvers for women are available, featuring handles in- set with pearl, ivory and mink. Created by Miss Ann Wesson, Co.

Wall Street is speculating as to who will succeed the late Irving Finster (shown above) as Junior Partner, and Vice-President of Myrtle, Launch, Purse, Finster and Beansoup. A veteran of 27 years with the company, Finster served 14 years as Vice-President, after working up from Assistant Ticker-Tape-Tosser. Likely replacement is firm's youngest partner, Campbell Beansoup, son of Melville Myrtle, son-in-law of Otto Launch, and first cousin of Harvey Purse.

Stereo Placement Vital to Proper Sound Convergence

To attain the best results with your stereo system, it is advisable to set up your speaker units so that the sound converges at the point where you will spend the most time. An example of this is shown by the stereo system installed in the penthouse apartment of the late Irving Finster, stockbroker and Hi-Fi enthusiast. Note that the sound converges on the area of the sofa. Equipment includes Dual 24" Trump speakers, a Trump 7-speed changer, a Mangle 5-channel amplifier, a Click diamond-studded cartridge, and an Atrocious price tag.

Today, more and more magazines are discovering that, in order to keep up their high circulation, they've got to print the kind of photographs people want to look at . . . mainly the ones spiced with sex and sensationism. And this creates quite a problem. Most high-class family-type magazines can't print a picture just for the sake of being sensational! So what can they do? They can phony up a sensational picture with a caption that makes it look respectable! To show you what we mean, here are some examples of . . .

MILLIONAIRE PLAYBOY SHOT BY SWEETIE IN LOVERS' QUARREL

Shapely model Zelda Zitzlaff smiles for photos after pumping five bullets into body of millionaire boyfriend, stockbroker Irving Finster. "The heel didn't come across with the mink he promised, so I plugged him!" confessed Miss Zitzlaff.

The most amazing difference between old-fashioned auto accidents and modern auto accidents is that it is no longer necessary for the car to be moving!

Germicide: Nazi form of Hara-Kiri.

Even though this latest design style is comparatively new, it has already chalked up quite a few surprised victims. It seems that these razor-edged fenders neatly slice anyone or anything that happens to come even close.

THE SLANT-FENDER SLASH

Not enough reports are available in this category, as this safety feature is a relatively new one. The few that have been received are almost impossible to believe. But by using imagination, we can certainly see the possibilities.

THE SWIVEL-SEAT ABRASION

The majority of mishaps in this category include only passengers in the rear seats being affected. However, some isolated cases are reporting drivers being crushed against the steering wheel and dashboard while moving forward.

THE POWER-SEAT CONTRACTURE

This accident is usually caused in two ways — entering the car — or leaving it. Bending low is one way to avoid it. However, extreme caution must be used so one does not accidentally strike the face against steering column.

THE LOW-SILHOUETTE CONCUSSION

AUTO ACCIDENTS

THE DOUBLE-HEADLIGHT COMA

Once upon a time, this accident was caused by oncoming "brights." With today's double-headlights, it is now even being caused by oncoming "dims." In fact, a few cases were reported occurring in broad daylight with no lights on.

Hackney: Physician's reflex test.

THE HOOD-RELEASE LACERATION

A large number of modern mishaps fall into this category, mainly among service station personnel. Hood acts as if it's stuck, then suddenly springs open, catching victim by surprise—also by chin, nose, teeth, forehead, etc.

THE GAS-COVER AMPUTATION

The high-tension spring which keeps the modern gas tank cover closed contributes much to this injury, but the main damage is caused by the knife-like edges left when the cover itself was stamped out of that metal sheet.

One need only to compare the automobiles of yesterday with the automobiles of today to note the amazing progress being made in modern auto designs. And one need only to compare the files of doctors and hospitals of yesterday with the files of doctors and hospitals today to note the amazing progress being made in

MODERN

THE DAGMAR FRACTURE

One of the commonest of modern auto accidents being reported, this mishap usually succeeds in shattering the kneecaps, fibula, femur, and shins. Shorter people report having teeth knocked out, and also being stuck in the ear.

THE TAIL-FIN GORE

This mishap usually occurs when unwary pedestrians accidentally back up into parked cars. Also, an increasing number of ruptured stomachs are being reported, too, especially from areas where the lighting facilities are very poor.

THE POWER-WINDOW STRANGLE

An increasing number of mishaps caused by this latest innovation in labor-saving devices has been reported, especially among those younger auto passengers who hang out windows. Can be serious if not remedied in reasonable time.

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER DEPT.

Every Sunday night, TV viewers all over the country are faced with a dilemma: whether to turn on Steve Allen, or Ed Sullivan, or stick with Maverick and see how it ends!

We of MAD have solved this problem by the use of judicious dial-switching. That way, we get to see the best of the eight-to-nine TV fare no matter what channel it's on.

SUNDAY TELEVISION

It's THE STEVE ALLEN SHOW—with Steve's special surprise guest star...—Henny Youngman—and tonight's extra special surprise guest star...

Thank yew! Tonight, we have a really big shew lined up for you! We have Senior Wences—Ben Hogan—The Four Aces—and a special treat! Something big. Something REALLY BIG!

Wonderful, Eydie! Wonderful! What a voice! Isn't she great, folks? Y'know, Eydie, every time you sing, you remind me of...

That's right, boys! And we're gonna have a friendly little game of 7-card stud! Okay?

Who's the chick on the back cover of your January issue?

Peter Olin

What's Her Name?

As a matter of fact, as yet we haven't found out her name ourselves! Perhaps you readers have some suggestions?—Ed.

THE WRONG MADISON

Who goofed? In the Jan. issue's margins, there is a "For Sale — Cheap: A Handy Guide to Madison, Wisconsin — Frank Sinatra". Everybody knows that Frankie-boy put in his time at Madison, Indiana, and since we had to put up with him, I think we deserve the correction. George Willick

Someone Else Remembers

On reading your January issue, I was pleased to note that a picture of "Scribly" had found its way into a crowd scene. For years, I was a "Scribly" fan, and it's nice to know that someone besides me remembers the earlier efforts of Sheldon Mayer.

EDUCATIONAL AID

Recently, I told my Math teacher my ideal was Alfred E. Neuman. For the rest of the Math period, I had to listen to a tirade on how clouds like you were ruining America's youth. After the lecture, I told my teacher I was going to try to get a letter published in MAD. He cheerfully answered that if I did, he'd try his best to get me expelled from school. What do you think of that?

Ronald Solberg

We think it's a grand idea. Here's your letter. And thank your Math Teacher for helping us in our campaign.—Ed.

As a member of the Lepidopterists Society, I feel it is my duty to protest against the insult directed at us by Don Martin. His drawing on page 18 of the January issue has the effrontery to suggest that a prize is being given for a specimen mounted in such a way that it has been permanently damaged and is of absolutely no scientific value. The pin should always be through the thorax (chest), and never through the wings, as this will invariably tear them.

When a wash-and-wear cotton shrinks, it deserves to be called wash-and-bewitch. And unpleasant as it sounds, some of the new wash-and-wear cottons cannot shrink — right into that tight fit. How can you tell which ones won't? Easiest thing in the world. Just look for the "Samforized" trademark on wash-and-wear, and then don't buy it. Get any other cotton, and you can be sure it will wash cheerfully, shrink happily, and fit seductively.

For that form-fitting wash-and-wear, avoid the "Samforized" label!
